He asserted that he knew [illegible] of it. Mrs Ouray was still more [illegible] and the committee were unable to extract any information upon subjects under inquiry. Jack was then tried, but with [illegible] success. At first he positively asserted that he did not understand and could not speak [illegible] were [illegible] English but he preserved [illegible] appearance of indifference. [illegible] then put to him in Spanish [illegible] preferred [illegible] better rest. That he met the soldiers three days before the fight and tried to persuade them to turn back and that, failing in this and fearing trouble he [illegible] away, that he had no hand in the Thornburgh fight or the Meeker massacre.

Chairman Scales then addressed Ouray telling him that it was evident to the committee that they had determined not to testify, and such a course would only delay the matter and needlessly prolong their stay here; that the object of summoning them to appear before the committee was to obtain their version of the difficulties in Colorado; that the committee was friendly to them and only anxious to have justice done them and protect them in their rights. Ouray listened attentively but made no reply.

DONNELLY-WASHBURN

Charges Against Washburn Specified and Piled on—Wholesale Frauds Alleged

SPECIAL DISPATCH TO THE OREGONIAN

WASHINGTON March 19—The house committee on elections postponed a formal vote in the Donnelly Washburn (Minn) case to day until the minority report has been printed. The majority report of the sub committee finds in favor of unseating Washburn and seating Donnelly. It cites 291 cases on the part of Washburn where money was paid by Washburn's clerks, his business manager, the secretary of his political committee or his political agents. Over 100 cases are traced directly to Washburn's office, the money in some cases being paid in his presence or in the presence of his brother, Governor C C Washburn of Wisconsin.

In one case a democratic village postmaster wrote directly to Washburn offering to sell his vote for $50. Washburn through a friend answered the letter, thanking him for the offer and sent a friend to him to pay the money. In another case 90 woodchoppers who were not legal voters were paid $ each to vote for Washburn and the money was repaid by Washburn's business manager. In another case a democratic speaker who had been advocating Donnelly was announced to make a democratic speech the night before the election. He made a speech for Washburn and told the next day that he had received $150 of Washburn's money for doing so. At Crookston there were 85 legal voters and 258 votes cast by paid railroad hands. A democratic newspaper at Little Falls was bought to support Washburn for $250 dollars. Washburn sent out a U S land officer to canvass for him. He admits that he may have bribed 100 persons. A great number of laborers in sparsely settled points where there were no precincts or polling places voted, although non resident. They all voted for Washburn for pay. These bribe[illegible] extended through a section half as large as New York. In Minneapolis one man was paid $50 for his vote and influence and others from $25 to $35. Workmen were paid by their employers $10 to work and vote for Washburn. Overcoats and flour were paid. Saloons voted their boarders for pay. In many cases money was offered and declined. Employers intimidated their workmen to vote for Washburn or not at all thereby causing nearly 3000 democrats not to vote. The republican majority was 3660 for Washburn against 85[illegible] for Hayes in 1875. The numbering of ballots was in pursuance of a plan to intimidate voters and was unconstitutional. Lawyers advised republicans not to do it. Out of 21 judges Donnelly only had one, while being a candidate of both parties he should have had 14. They go on at great length to multiply instances and conclude that they reject votes and precincts not because ballots were numbered but because they were numbered with fraudulent intent. Had no unfair means been used, Donnelly would have carried Minneapolis as he carried the rest of the district. He has a majority of 230. They declare that they have rejected or thrown out nothing on legal quibbles only.

Views of the German-Americans of New York.

Mr Byland, editor of the New Yorker Republican, was prominent among the movers of the German republican convention held at Syracuse on the day before Conkling's Utica convention. The New York Mail thus reports an interview with him:

"How many German republicans are there in the state?"

"They number now about 60,000, principally along the Erie and Central railroads. In Buffalo and Rochester they poll 17,000 out of 20,000 German votes. It can be safely stated that 75 per cent of the German voters in the state are republicans."

"How did these men vote eight and twelve years ago?"

"Solid for Grant. And just as solid as they worked for Grant then, just so earnest will they fight against this innovation, this third term movement now."

"What do you propose doing in the event of Gen Grant's renomination?"

"That we will not discuss now. We shall leave that for future consideration, but in fact we are so certain that such an event will not take place that I have heard very little said about it. We believe, as German Americans and admirers of General Grant, that his going into a convention as competitor for the nomination of president under a third term will not be in keeping with the pages of history on which he ought to figure."

"What are your principal objections to the third term candidacy?"

"Exactly as set forth in our call. The main point against which we are opposed lies in the fact that, after the taking of the census of 1880 the political supremacy of the remnants of the southern oligarchy together with that of the few Tammany wards in this city and Connecticut and Indiana will have disappeared and be reduced to less than one third of the whole congressional representation."

"You spoke a moment ago of the general opposition to the third term by the German voters. Can you give an idea of the feeling of the people more particularly?"

"Only this, that in the United States there are between 400 and 500 German newspapers—daily and weekly—and a recent canvass shows that not one of them advocates a third term. Reports from local organizations in every [illegible] express a disavowal of a third term candidacy. Let me say right here in connection with this innovation, that the idea broached in certain republican circles of electing presidential electors by legislative proxy has but one [illegible] and purpose. It is simply this: That in the event of a third term candidacy being forced upon the people provision will have been made for a majority of the thirty five electoral votes of this state. This then bears the evidence on its face that they are afraid that the instigators of the idea are not only expectant but certain of a popular minority at the polls."

Why Wool Should Advance

The United States Economist of a recent date gives the following reasons why wool should advance:

1 No wool in the west.
2 Western manufacturers buying in eastern markets
3 Stock of fleece lighter in the market than usual
4 Wools held by strong holders. No consignment of any amount to force off if sellers get scarce
5 The feeling in general that wool must advance
6 More wool has been sold to manufacturers than is usual in December
7 Manufacturers will be obliged to enter the market soon
8 East India and Mediterranean wools will not prove satisfactory for general use as [illegible] wools and fleeces will be more in[illegible] for [illegible] only suitable stock except English wools
9 English fleeces are advancing rapidly [illegible] will soon be too high to import
10 The bulk of importations of Australian and South American fine wools are ready [illegible] manufacturers who can carry a [illegible] necessary and but little will be [illegible]
11 Australian and South American wools are too fine for general demand and [illegible] fleeces must be used for many [illegible]
12 The prospects are that the [illegible] will develop a smart advance in prices [illegible] wools and put a stop to any further imports of fine wools
13 The demand for woolen goods exceeds the supply
14 Manufacturers are getting an advance [illegible] goods with every contract.
15 The country is prosperous [illegible] wool and woolen goods are lower than [illegible] and manufactured products and the [illegible] and woolens has been legitimate [illegible] lar and almost devoid of speculation

Downward Jogging, Both of Them

[From the Burlington Hawkeye

CONGRESSIONAL

Senate

WASHINGTON March 19 [illegible] was passed [illegible] while the prayer [illegible] Samuel B Anthony

House

[illegible] from the labor committee reported a [illegible] the president [illegible] to abrogate [illegible] of peace and the United States cannot [illegible] the right of any government by treaty or otherwise to grant to any other foreign power or to any corporation created or authorized by any foreign power any privilege right or authority in respect to such inter oceanic highway as will be inconsistent with their peace and security with free commerce and intercourse among the states of the union; that the president be requested to take the necessary and proper steps to carry into effect the foregoing declarations of public policy.

The house then went into committee of the whole on the special deficiency bill.

After a spirited debate Ewing appealed to the democrats to accept Garfield's compromise and modify these bad election laws so as to make them non partisan, otherwise the cry of nullification would go up all over the north.

Hawley excitedly declared that the republican party tendered no compromise. It execrated the word.

Springer's amendment to Garfield's substitute providing that general deputy marshals be appointed by the U S judges was adopted, also an amendment that deputy marshals shall not receive over three days pay.

Frye in Garfield's absence disclaimed that he offered a compromise.

Ewing said that the supreme court having declared constitutional the election laws they must be so regarded at present, but only temporarily because the supreme court never accepted as final a supreme court decision which was obtained by a party division of the tribunal. They had learned that the fire of partisanship burned as fiercely beneath the ermine as beneath the jackets of the people, but it was not necessary for representatives to vote any sum of money which might be demanded for the execution of the laws they believed utterly subversive of the liberties of the people. The majority of the north were tired of the republican party. It held its power by clamor about southern brigadiers and renewal by the people of the south of opposition to a constitutional government by secession or nullification.

Williams, of Wisconsin would consent to no compromise until he was prepared to vote for the repeal of the election laws.

Randall said that to day's discussion narrowed the issue down to this: this law was on the statute books and the democrats believed it unconstitutional.

Springer's amendment was to take from that act a partisan administration of its provisions. Republicans would not have the law changed. Hawley, Randall and Robeson had an excited debate in which Randall declared that the republicans had administered this law in an outrageous manner.

Garfield said that speaking for himself alone it was ever his first object in legislation to be right. In a heated debate the only fair argument made against the elections law to his mind was that they were used or might be used for party electioneering in behalf of one party. He had been and was in favor of modifying the laws so that alleged abuses should not take place [applause on democratic side]. The republicans had unanimously objected to riders on appropriation bills. They had tried to prevent a rider but it was ruled to be in order. It was his duty to help make the best amendment proper and for that purpose on his own responsibility, he had offered the amendment of yesterday. The democrats had voted down his proposition and substituted one which made a semblance of obeying the law, which was a farce and a notice to mobs to come in sufficient numbers to overwhelm the keepers of the peace and let hell rule election day. That proposition nullified the election law. He sarcastically reviewed the inconsistencies of the democrats and the presidential aspirations of Randall.

MacMahon offered as a substitute for the pending amendment that of Garfield offered yesterday making special deputies appointable by U S judges per diem $5, and equally representing all parties.

Cox did not disguise the fact that he would have this law wiped out. He didn't concede that the supreme court decisions were binding. Jackson defied the supreme court decision that the U S bank law was unconstitutional. Answer any of you gentlemen; would you have carried out the fugitive slave law by voting money to slave catchers? You are dumb.

MacMahon's substitute was agreed to, 108 to 53. Several prominent republicans voted aye.

Springer's amendment thus amended was agreed to, 121 to 29, republicans generally refusing to vote.

The committee rose and reported the bill with all the amendments agreed to and the bill passed 110 to 104. All the republicans and five democrats voted against it.

The public printing bill, by unanimous consent was reported, considered and quickly passed.

Another Real Romance.

The following story has come to the hearing of the Atlanta (Ga) Constitution.

Many years ago there was a young fellow named Bigelow sent by his father to Yale College. The father was very rich and the youngster lived in grand style at the university. Suddenly the old gentleman broke and had to withdraw his son from college. The boy however, felt the necessity of an education and determined to have one anyhow. He therefore went to work to learn a trade as a machinist. While he was at work his old associates cut him and refused to have any thing to do with him. The young ladies with whom he had been a great favorite failed to recognize him when they met him. One day when going from his work he met a wealthy young lady who had been his friend. He had his tin dinner bucket over his arm and supposed she would cut him as all the rest had done.

She smiled pleasantly, addressed him as Tom and insisted that he should call and see her as he had always done. She said "There is no change in you as far as I am concerned." The years rolled on. The young workboy became immensely wealthy and is now the mayor of New Haven with an income of $100,000 a year and the owner of a factory in which 1500 men and women are employed. The young girl grew to womanhood and married. Her husband borrowed a large sum of money from Mr Bigelow and died before he had paid it, leaving his family with but little property. Mr Bigelow sent her with his condolence a receipt [illegible] her husband's indebtedness and now [illegible] Mr Bigelow the millionaire is [illegible] marry the daughter of the one woman who was faithful and true to the young workboy at college.

Hayes

From George Alfred Townsend's Correspondence.

He is the most viceless man who ever took the office—the Blameless Prince of [illegible] poet's title. He did not swear like Washington and Jackson, undermine like Jefferson and Van Buren, envy and sulk like the two Adamses, go loose and incontinent like [illegible] and Johnson, talk gross and coarse like [illegible] sometimes did, nor be weak [illegible] and [illegible] like Madison and Tyler. His sincerity is now only suspected by [illegible] political knaves or the [illegible]. He has plucked respect by silent [illegible] from all frank adversaries and [illegible] plaint though often sought to be [illegible] premeditation and regularly referred [illegible] some [illegible] as if he were [illegible] Warte [illegible] pretending to his [illegible] but himself has redeemed him [illegible] [illegible] has yet won [illegible] marriage was [illegible] so purely [illegible] His bearing has [illegible] complete [illegible] vanity [illegible] which did not [illegible] his example [illegible] Converse democrat [illegible] me that the republicans [illegible] who would run as well as Hayes [illegible] November and [illegible] Hayes ability to govern was not greater [illegible] candidate the party might select.

Division and Weakness

From the Chicago Times [illegible]

It is perfectly plain to all [illegible] that the nomination of Grant would tend to revive the strong anti Grant feeling among men called republicans which marked the closing part of his administration, rent his party asunder, and took away its preponderance in the national legislature. Thus by nominating him, the party would invite and provoke a division of its own body, weakening itself and strengthening its adversary.

If you wish to marry a lady when it won't cost you much to support, select a burlesque actress under the impression that she won't costume much.

A western sleeping car was recently entertained with the sight of a man beating his wife. Some men have the rare faculty of making themselves at home anywhere.

An Ohio girl sued a man for breach of promise and proved him such a mean scoundrel that the jury decided that she ought to pay him something for not marrying her.

A Californian's matrimonial advertisement winds up as follows: "Fortune no object, but should require the gal's relations to deposit $1500 with me as a security for her good behavior."

A lady one day wrote to her absent husband the following letter which may be quoted as a model in its way: "I write to you because I have nothing to do. I end because I have nothing to say."

It is said of Sir Isaac Newton's nephew who was a clergyman that he always refused a marriage fee saying with much pleasantry "Go your way, poor children. I have done you mischief enough already without taking your money."

In a rural district of Lo[illegible]shire a young plowman once went courting on a Saturday night. In vain he racked his brain for some interesting topic; he could call up no subject suitable for the occasion—not one sentence could he utter and for two long hours he sat in silent despair. The girl herself was equally silent; she had no doubt remembered the teaching of the old Scotch song "Man maun be the first to speak," and she sat patiently regarding him with demure surprise. At last John suddenly exclaimed "Jenny there's a feather on yer apron." "I wadna wondered if there had been twa," replied Jennie, "for I've been sittin' aside a goose a' nicht."

Trying to Restore the Fever Tax

[From the Chicago Tribune]

The advocates of the wicked quinine tax are urging that whereas the price was $3 50 to $3 75 before the tax was repealed the article is now $3 20, therefore the tax should be reimposed. They are not claiming that the tax was a source of revenue to the government as the Philadelphia manufacturers had a monopoly of American consumption and sold their quinine just a shade under the foreign price with duty and freight added. The tax was therefore a perpetual subsidy which enabled one firm alone to amass millions of dollars out of the malarial fever sick people of the United States. To talk of restoring such a tax is simply wicked. Flesh and blood can't bear it.

[From the New York World]

So far as Mr Bayard is concerned [illegible] no reason to dread any discussion of this speech (The secession speech of 1861). The Benton county greenback convention met at Corvallis on the 11th and made the following nominations: Representatives A G Mulkey, Nathan Wheaidon, Willis V[illegible]; sheriff W T Bryan; clerk, Geo L Gibson; treasurer Jas Henderson; commissioners Wm McLagan, Jas Watkins; assessor, Geo Ryecraft; surveyor, Thomas L[illegible]; school superintendent J H Aldrich; coroner Dr F A Johnston.

Mr Wilkins of Benton county the Gazette reports has invented a pump so arranged that the stock on approaching the trough tread upon a platform slightly raised at the end next to the well which is pressed downward by the weight of the animal forcing the plunger down and the water up into the trough. This pump is so arranged that with a lever and weight on the top of the plunger the housewife can constantly supply her kitchen with water without labor.

At a convention of the union greenback party held in Hillsboro on the 11th inst the following ticket was nominated for state and county offices: For state senator A K Milner; for representatives D M Dunbar, M F Johnston, A O Brown; for county clerk George Fishburn; for sheriff C R Morgan; for treasurer M E Dilley; for assessor Joshua Clark; for school superintendent Maynard Chamberlain; for commissioners William Leach, Jacob Shearer; for delegate to state convention A O Brown.

[illegible]ker station is located in the very best agricultural portion of Polk county and is destined to become a shipping point of much importance. A petition will be presented at the next term of the county court praying for the opening of a new county road to commence near the Williams bridge on the Luckiamute and run down the south side of the Luckiamute and cross that stream at the new town. Already several lots have been disposed of in the new town and it is an excellent location for a general merchandise store, a hotel and blacksmith shop.

Roseburg Star: At a meeting of the citizens of Oakland on Friday last, for the purpose of erecting a suitable building for an academy, much interest was manifested and it was voted that a joint stock company be organized with a capital of $3,000 to erect a school building. Some eighteen hundred dollars were subscribed at the meeting that night and at the present time nearly the whole amount has been raised. It is intended that the school should be a graded one and may be chartered as a college. Prof Russell a teacher of well known ability will have charge.

A BRAVE MAN DEAD

[From the New York Times]

Col Isaac Parker who was in many respects an extraordinary man [illegible] the Chestnut [illegible] Col Parker was the son of Mr Brown Parker of Car[illegible]. The family [illegible] and lawyers [illegible] the state. The [illegible] a few personal friends who had been hastily summoned to his bedside, among them being Major Gen Hancock, Gen Mitchell, Capt Whartman from Governor's Island and Mrs Staley a sister, who has recently been living on Twenty third street. The family was informed by telegraph and [illegible] the remains [illegible] Philadelphia [illegible] The father of the deceased [illegible] to answer the summons in person. Col Parker had been in the city several weeks attending to some business and when here was attacked by an old [illegible] symptoms of [illegible] the final cause of his death was disease of the heart with which he had [illegible]

Col Parker graduated at the law school of Harvard College in 1860. The war broke out in 1861 and he and many other young men [illegible] enlisted as privates in the Pennsylvania reserve corps called out for the defense of the state. Shortly afterward he was commissioned a second lieutenant in the 19th Pennsylvania volunteer infantry regiment with which he served until the spring of 1863. At that period the regiment was attached to Hancock's brigade, of Gen W F Baldy Smith's division of the army of the Potomac. General Hancock appointed Lieut Parker aide de camp, with the rank of captain. From that time until the close of the war he remained on General Hancock's staff though repeatedly brevetted for gallantry on the field. When the conflict terminated he was honorably mustered out of the military service with the rank of captain and aide de camp and the brevet rank of lieutenant colonel. Major Gen Hancock by whom he was highly esteemed pressed him to accept of a captain's commission in the regular army, but Col Parker declined, on the ground that the family estates were very large and somewhat involved in litigation and he preferred to pursue the profession of law, which he had chosen in his early youth to that of an army life in time of peace.

When he entered the army he was scarcely twenty years of age. He was twenty four years of age when mustered out of the service and Gen Hancock remarked last night that at that time he knew more officers of the army than any other man in it. He was brave to a fault and a great favorite wherever he went. He was a republican in politics and very aggressive in the maintenance of opinions. A number of officers now in the army were found last evening who gave many interesting reminiscences of his army life illustrating his strongly developed characteristics. In figure he was lithe and light with a handsome and almost girlish face. He was wounded several times and while lying helplessly on the battlefield at Gettysburg, was run over by an ambulance receiving injuries from which he never recovered. Within the past year Dr Morris Asch of this city, an old and personal friend and an army surgeon of the 2d corps, performed a surgical operation for his relief. Dr Asch also attended him in his last illness. It is related of Col Parker that one day Gen Hancock during the battle of Williamsburg dispatched him with orders to the commander of the line of battle under fire. Young Parker not yet having become fully accustomed to the restraints of military life, and being still imbued with the independent instincts of a well-born Kentuckian ventured to offer some suggestions to the general as to how the battle ought to be conducted. Gen Hancock remarked that if he was afraid to carry his orders to the front he would get some other officer to perform that service. Parker was so stung by the rebuke that he put spurs to his horse, delivered his orders and remained on the skirmish line all day in the thickest of the fight, though the general repeatedly ordered him to return.

Gen Hancock himself last night told a reporter of the Times with great relish, a story which illustrates how the reckless bravery of the young officer was regarded by others. The headquarters bugler of Gen Hancock's division was private John Malone of Maine. A braver and a better soldier never lived than Private Malone, remarked the general. One day during a heavy fight Capt Parker mounted his horse for the purpose of taking a hand in it on his own account. Malone who was watching the proceedings ruefully and who appeared to think that it was entirely unlikely that Parker would ever come back again walked up and requested him to hand over to him Gen Hancock's field glass which Malone had discovered hanging over the captain's shoulder. He thought it quite prudent to save that much of the general's property alive. Malone was even more reckless and daring than Parker and when after the battle of Antietam all were exhausted with that great struggle and Gens Hancock, Mitchell and some of his other division generals were resting toward the close of the day without food or refreshment, Malone appeared as if by magic with a bottle of brandy. Parker declared that Malone had killed a hospital steward to obtain it.

At the battle of Rea[illegible] station at a critical moment Gen Hancock dispatched his favorite aid with information to Gen Mc[illegible] headquarters. On his arrival every one was burning with anxiety to know how the battle was going. "How is Gen Hancock?" cried one. "He is all right," was the reply. "How is Gen Mitchell?" asked another. "Oh he is well enough." "How is Brownson," finally asked a staff officer alluding to Orestes Brownson, a young and very popular officer of Gen Hancock's staff. "Oh he's all right too," replied the imperturbable Parker. "He is being embalmed." With all his bluntness and fickleness he was kind, generous and chivalrous to a degree and never forgot that he was gentleman. Though not an officer [illegible] the army at the time of his [illegible] will be [illegible] by [illegible] who knew him and admired his [illegible]

THE MINNESOTA STEAL.

A sweeping report has been made against Washburne, of the Minneapolis (Minnesota) district. In order to seat a contestant (Donnelly) and to secure the state in the possible contingency of the election of president devolving on the house of representatives, charges of bribery and fraud on an enormous scale are alleged against Washburne. It is easy to see from the report how greatly the allegations are overdone. Because Washburne got a large majority in Minneapolis, his own city, where he has lived many years and has always been very popular, it is assumed that his whole majority of nearly three thousand was bought—an utterly absurd assumption. Against such a renegade blatherskite as Donnelly it is no wonder he got nearly a unanimous vote. These charges of bribery are similar to those made by Garcelon's friends in Maine to cover their scheme of scoundrelism there. They are trumped up in pursuance of a like partisan object which dares not avow the intent which every one sees it pursuing with an undeviating purpose. The desperate political gamblers who control the democratic party intend to seize the presidency. Should the republicans get a majority of the electoral votes, as the democratic managers expect they will, the latter, controlling both branches of congress intend to raise questions as to the validity of the returns. It will make no difference to them whether there be anything in their objections or not. Then after getting the count into a muddle they intend to declare that no one has been legally chosen. The next step will be to elect by states through the house of representatives. But they cannot yet control a majority of the states. Do the best they can, they will still lack one. Hence it [illegible] necessary to find some republican [illegible] can be attacked. Minnesota is [illegible] where a contest had been com[illegible]—and so on the plan which had [illegible] it became necessary to unseat [illegible] and to seat Donnelly. This is the [illegible] of the Minnesota contest. [illegible] trying to steal Maine on fraudulent [illegible], and meeting an ignominious [illegible] damaging failure, it was thought [illegible] a new scheme for Minnesota. [illegible] attempt to carry the case by [illegible] pretended revelations of [illegible] a scale never before imagined. [illegible] is an afterthought. At first the [illegible] attempted on mere technicalities [illegible] those tried by Garcelon in Maine. [illegible] design was to throw out the vote [illegible] on the ground that the votes [illegible]. But it was shown that they [illegible] in pursuance of state law; [illegible] the law has since been held [illegible] it was undoubtedly in force [illegible] of the election, and [illegible] of ballots only because they [illegible] would have been mere tech[illegible]. When the brief of Garcelon [illegible] that this would not do, it became [illegible] take some other course. After [illegible] and delay this scheme of [illegible] bribery was adopted as [illegible] thing. Of course Wash[illegible] voted out. It was apparent [illegible] began and the object of it [illegible] apparent, that this would be done, [illegible] of a vote in congress is of [illegible] and Minnesota can on a [illegible] election right the wrong [illegible] Washburne by ten [illegible] majority. But the change of the [illegible] of the most solid republican states [illegible] so as to make that state the in[illegible] of seating a democratic president [illegible] not be elected by the people, is [illegible] which furnishes the climax to [illegible] usurpation which forbids [illegible] party to exist in the southern [illegible] which essays to control the coun[illegible] [illegible] purposely sustained and [illegible] scheme of fraud and villainy, up[illegible] illegitimate succession of the old [illegible]. The next step in the conspira[illegible] the presidency in violation of [illegible] to unseat Orth of Indiana, [illegible] to make it sure, on the [illegible] by the house of represent[illegible] will certainly be done.

[illegible] copy of the evidence collected [illegible] the bribery charge against Wash[illegible] procured by the Washington cor[illegible] of the St. Paul Pioneer Press and [illegible] in that journal some two weeks [illegible] are 303 pages of printed testi[illegible] Pioneer Press reviews it very fully [illegible] becomes a non-partisan and in[illegible] journal. It does not hesitate to [illegible] a particle of evidence has been [illegible] voter having been bribed in [illegible]. "It will be seen," con[illegible] journal referred to, "that there is [illegible] evidence whatever that a [illegible] corruptly influenced to vote [illegible] not a particle of evidence [illegible] of the money used to pay election [illegible] came from Washburne; that he au[illegible] the expenditure of a dollar even for [illegible] or that any money or other val[illegible] was paid or promised to be paid, [illegible] offered or promised, by him or [illegible] authorized by him or with his [illegible] consent, to corruptly influence [illegible]. A perusal of the abstract of [illegible] which we have taken pains to [illegible] impartial an exhibit as possible [illegible] on both sides, will show our [illegible] what an aerial basis rests the [illegible] bribery against Washburne which [illegible] going to be substituted for the [illegible] of counting him out on [illegible] grounds." What was antic[illegible] the Minnesota journal has now [illegible]. The object no one can fail to un[illegible]

[illegible] PROGRAMME ALREADY BROKEN.

[illegible] dispatches to the New York [illegible] that the election of anti Grant [illegible] in Indiana and the postponement [illegible] Illinois convention until the 19th of [illegible], are felt at Washington to be very dam[illegible] blows to the third term movement. [illegible] of the third term syndicate, formed [illegible] the ex-president was in Philadelphia, [illegible] promulgated early in January, was that [illegible], New York, Indiana and Illi[illegible] should hold their conventions very early [illegible] solid third term delegations for the [illegible] convention with a view to influenc[illegible] other states. Accordingly Senator Came[illegible] the Pennsylvania convention to [illegible] for the 4th of February, and when [illegible] was made that the sudden call did [illegible] give the people time to meet in county [illegible] the order was given that the [illegible] committees should appoint the dele[illegible] in Harrisburg without the inter[illegible] or action of the people. Be[illegible] the Harrisburg convention met [illegible] republicans showed so general [illegible] formidable an opposition to the third [illegible] the syndicate quietly dropped that [illegible] their list, and claimed thereafter [illegible] term delegations from Penn[illegible] New York and Illinois would be [illegible] for them, and that the conventions [illegible] three states meeting early and de[illegible] for the ex-president would give them all they needed to effect their object. The Harrisburg convention proved a disappointment to them, however, in spite of Mr. Cameron's efforts. The third term proved very weak; it was carried by a small majority, 133 to 113, and Mr. Cameron is reported to have said since that it would have failed had not his friends among the anti third termers stood by him personally, conceiving that the real struggle was over the Cameron predominance in the state. Not a single county in the state had instructed its delegates for the ex-president, except Dauphin county, in which Mr. Cameron lives, and it was only by using his own and Gov. Hoyt's political influence to persuade some delegates from anti-third term counties to go over to the ex-president that he escaped an utter defeat.

Next came the New York convention. There the whole vast patronage of the state was in the hands of the third termers, and was openly used to secure the convention. Mr. Conkling himself abandoning his seat in the senate, took the most earnest interest in the matter. The convention stood 217 to 180, only 37 majority for the third term, a smaller majority in proportion to the numbers of the convention than that which Mr. Cameron secured in Pennsylvania; but an analysis of this vote shows that the third term strength came to a very great extent, and, indeed, almost altogether, from those counties and parts of the state in which the democrats have a safe majority, while the opposition to the third term came from the republican counties, thus showing that the republican part of the state is opposed to the third term, and so strongly opposed to it that not even the most skillful and determined use of patronage could overcome or silence the people's dislike.

On the same day upon which the New York convention was being held under "boss," management, the Illinois state republican committee assembled at Chicago. A large number of prominent republicans met with it, and persons from every district in the state expressed themselves freely and fully on the political situation. Thereupon late in the afternoon, and when the result in Utica was already known, the committee went into private session and determined to call the state convention to meet on the 19th of May. Amendments setting the meeting for an earlier day were voted down, and the 19th of May, just fifteen days before the assembling of the national convention, was fixed. The meaning of this is sufficiently clear. The Illinois republicans refuse to tie themselves to the third term kite. They have seen that the third term movement has no popular strength.

Careful and authentic inquiry among the county and township committee men in Pennsylvania shows that out of 1631, only 288 favor a third term, and most of the latter are men who are attached by personal or political interest to the fortunes of Cameron. In Ohio, Indiana, Wisconsin, Iowa and other states upon which the republican candidate must rely, the Grant movement is equally weak. Vermont and Rhode Island, following Indiana, have appointed delegates opposed to Grant. The action taken in Indiana and Illinois shows that the third term movement has broken down entirely in two of the states which, according to the original programme, were to be captured early; while the result forced in Pennsylvania and New York succeeded only by a majority of 20 on a vote of 246 in one case, and a majority of of 37 on a vote of 397 in the other,—these narrow successes being gained only by packing the conventions and bringing to bear on them the whole pressure of machine organization, and causing in each case open discontent and division in the party. Such is the net result of the third term movement. Not another state will instruct for Grant, unless perhaps some southern one which can not possibly give him an electoral vote. No other states are so ridden by political bosses as Pennsylvania and New York.

A SERIOUS MISTAKE, AND HOW IT AROSE.

Mr. William E. Dingle, formerly of Washington territory, now a resident of Wagontown, Chester county, Pa., sends the following, clipped from the American Republican, a paper published at West Chester:

THAT OREGON MURDER.—It will be remembered that we published some time ago an account of the brutal murder of David E. Strode, at Portland Oregon, by a James H. Turner, editor of the Oregonian, at that place. The parents of the murdered man reside in West Marlborough, and his father, Thomas Strode, is determined to follow the case up and if possible bring the criminal to justice if any is to be had in that section of country. He has written to the district attorney, but has not yet received any reply, and thinks the mails may be delayed by the heavy snows in that mountainous country. From clippings taken from papers in that region we learn that David Henry was engaged in an encounter with a man named Black, whom he soon worsted, when Turner took it up and he soon fared the same way. Turner retired, but returned soon to the place where he found Strode and deliberately stabbed him to the heart with a large knife which he brought with him. Death soon followed. He was buried in the cemetery at Portland. It seems that they went through a sort of a preliminary trial. Turner had all except one of the lawyers engaged, and must have escaped without any trouble. He is one of the leaders of a gang of roughs, and it will not be much of a surprise if the cowardly assassin shall go unwhipped of justice. It is hoped, however, that the law will be visited upon him, and justice meted out according to his deserts. Mr. Strode was a gallant soldier in the union army, where he served in a Delaware regiment, and was several times wounded.

Mr. Dingle writes: "It is evident that a very serious mistake has been committed in this statement, and I call the attention of THE OREGONIAN to it. It may be worth while to take notice of it."

At the town of Pendleton in Eastern Oregon there is a patent outside weekly known as the East Oregonian. Its editor and proprietor is James H. Turner. Some months ago he killed a man at Pendleton. It was claimed by him and his friends that the homicide was a justifiable one. On this point we have not sufficient information on which to base an opinion. It is evident that some eastern journalist who had never heard of such a paper as the East Oregonian, but to whom the name of THE OREGONIAN was familiar, perpetrated the gross blunder in the above extract, and after having mistaken the name of the journal mistook also the name of the town, and converted "Pendleton" into "Portland."

This is not the first time that the imitation of the name of THE OREGONIAN by the patent outside weekly published at Pendleton has led to wrong conclusions. It is probable that one of the motives which led to the selection of the name "East Oregonian" was to mislead by the similarity. The act is equivalent to imitation of a trade mark. It is about the same thing as when one individual personates another in business. It is not honorable, and we are by no means sure that a court of law would not restrain it.

To better accommodate the Waldo Hills country and the eastern part of Marion county an extension of the Silverton branch of the Oregon and California railroad, beyond the original plan, has been agreed on, and dispatches from New York are received ordering it to be carried into effect. The plan is to extend a branch from the Silverton road, beginning at some suitable point eight or nine miles east of Salem, in a southeasterly course to Sublimity, or near that place. From the point of intersection on the Silverton branch to the terminus of the new extension the distance will be probably eight or ten miles. Of course the object is to cover as much ground as possible; and such also is the object of the builders of the narrow gauge. The competition between the companies is a great thing for the people of the east side of the valley, as it will give them abundant railroad facilities without need of their paying a dollar in subsidies or subscriptions.

We can see no good reason for the effort which is being made at Washington to prohibit the express of Wells, Fargo & Co. from carrying letters. That the government loses any revenue by it is not at all likely, since all letters thus forwarded are inclosed in stamped envelopes, or stamped envelopes are attached, covering the postage according to the weight of the matter. Many people on the Pacific coast have long been accustomed to forwarding business letters through this company, and they esteem it a convenience, for the double reason that they can hold letters up to the last moment before the express starts and get them out at their destination in advance of the delivery of the mail. When the government gets its postage without having to carry the letters, it ought to be content.

Sammy's Willamette Farmer has changed its quarters, and is now published with cast iron patent outside matter, market reports and all, from the Standard. Its freshness and value may be judged from the fact that a large part of its contents was already from second, third or fourth hands when the Standard printed it. After coming out through the Farmer it is about as fresh as blown beer which has crossed the tropics. Old Burton in his Anatomy of Melancholy talks about a parasite's parasite's parasite. Readers of the Farmer, if there are any, may apply the figure.

The Oregon has arrived

Yesterday the air was bracingly balmy.

Maguire's Dramatic Company is at Vancouver.

Everybody is racking his brain over solving the "15 puzzle."

State circuit court will probably not adjourn for several weeks.

Indian Dick got drunk yesterday and he is sobering up behind bars.

Copies of THE WEEKLY OREGONIAN can be had at the business office.

John H. Owens, the great comedian, will probably visit Portland soon.

Sailing and rowing will soon be one of the popular ways of passing time.

The crime crop is abundant. The penitentiary ought to do a thriving business

Gen. O. O. Howard and Capt. J. A. Sladen will leave Washington to-day bound west.

Klosterman Bros. removed yesterday to Cook's building on Front street near Ash

Ten cents will buy a copy of THE WEEKLY OREGONIAN—the best newspaper on the northwest coast.

W. S. Chapman, city surveyor, is to have an assistant from the first of April to the first of October.

Last Monday the residence of Oscar Lincoln at the Lower Cascades was totally destroyed by fire.

The new ferry company evidently mean business. They intend soon to have a ferry running between J street and Oak.

A couple of well "corned" soldiers attracted considerable attention yesterday at the corner of Front and Stark streets Both were tight as lords and were just spoiling for a fight.

Says the Astorian: "An Ilwaco girl gave her lover an embroidered motto, bearing the words "God is Love." He hung it tenderly upon the wall at the foot of his bed, and beneath it another, of his own handiwork, inscribed 'And Don't you Forget It.'"

NORTH PORTLAND NEWS.

Gathered by an "Oregonian" Reporter Yesterday.

The Bonita is being overhauled and is receiving a new coat of paint at the boneyard.

James Brady is building a story and a half dwelling on Thirteenth street near S, which, when completed, will cost $900.

A. J. Watson is erecting a two story building, to cost about $1000, at the corner of Thirteenth and S streets. The first story will be occupied as a saloon and the second as a broom factory.

Weidler's sawmill is now running on full time and turning out about 75,000 feet of lumber a day, half of which is destined for out of town trade. Carson's sash and door factory and Harlow's box factory are also running on full time, and are kept busy with orders for present and future use.

Capt. E. Sorensen has just finished putting in position the machinery for a machine shop in connection with his boatyard at the foot of Fifteenth street. All machinery is of the latest and most approved pattern and will be started to-day. Mr. Sorensen will immediately begin construction of a boiler and engine for the Knott Bros.' new ferry boat.

Grand opening in Spring and Summer styles of Hats and Caps, Saturday, March 20th, at C. H. Meussdorffer's, 162 First street. The spring style Silk Hat for 1880 of our own (Meussdorffer Bro.'s) manufacture, is now ready. In Cassimere Stiff Hats, we have forty different varieties, embracing all the styles worn in the leading cities of the United States and in Europe. In Soft Hats we have every quality, from the cheapest Wool Hat up to the best Beaver and Nutria Hat, and at prices which defy competition. Being in the Hat Business on the Pacific slope since 1850, and always doing a large trade, Meussdorffer Bros. are able to give larger contracts for Hats to our manufacturers east than any other house in the same business on the coast; therefore it stands to reason that we can procure better goods for lower prices than all other importing houses.

RIVER FRONT IMPROVEMENTS.

$100,000 Worth of Docks and Buildings to be Erected by the O. S. N. Co. this Summer.

THE WORK ALREADY BEGUN.

The Oregon Steam Navigation Company commenced this week the construction of another dock, which will be the largest in the city. It will join the Ainsworth dock on the south and extend up the river five hundred feet, taking up the entire river front between the dock mentioned and the O. S. S. Co's dock, except that portion owned by the Western Oregon Railroad Company. It will have the same depth, the same hight of ceilings, and be built of the same strong timbers as the Ainsworth dock. It will be supplied with several steam elevators.

The bone yard will be moved down the river about half a mile below Weidler's saw mill. The company owns at this point a tract 1500 feet long by 700 feet wide. It is now being enclosed by a high board fence. Here will also be located the carpenter, joiner and blacksmith shops—in fact all the workshops of the company. At the lower end ways will be built on which boats can be hauled up for repairs. All boats not in use will be moored at this place, which will be called "the new bone yard."

The company has in contemplation the erection of a row of large warehouses between the new dock and the Western Oregon railroad switch. It is altogether likely that the company will also erect during the coming season a three story brick building near the site of the old Corbitt & Macleay dock, which will be occupied by the general offices of the Oregon Railway & Navigation Co. The improvements commenced and those contemplated will cost more than $100,000.

Various Causes—

Advancing years, care, sickness, disappointment and hereditary predisposition—all operate to turn the hair gray, and either of them inclines it to shed prematurely. AYER'S HAIR VIGOR will restore faded or gray, light and red hair to a rich brown or deep black, as may be desired. It softens and cleanses the scalp, giving it a healthy action, and removes and cures dandruff and humors. By its use falling hair is checked, and a new growth will be produced in all cases where the follicles are not destroyed or glands decayed. Its effects are beautifully shown on brashy, weak or sickly hair, to which a few applications will produce the gloss and freshness of youth. Harmless and sure in its operation, it is incomparable as a dressing, and is especially valued for the soft lustre and richness of tone it imparts. It contains neither oil nor dye and will not soil or color white cambric yet it lasts long on the hair and keeps it fresh and vigorous. For sale by all dealers. Hodge, Davis & Co., Portland, wholesale agents.

AUGUST FLOWER.

The immense sale and great popularity of Green's August Flower in all towns and villages in the civilized world has caused many imitators to adopt similar names, expecting to reap a harvest for themselves at the expense of the afflicted. This medicine was introduced in 1868, and for the cure of Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint, with their effects, such as Sour Stomach, Costiveness, Sick stomach, Sick Headache, Indigestion, Palpitation of the Heart, vertigo, etc., etc., it never has failed to our knowledge. Three doses will relieve any case of Dyspepsia. Two million bottles sold last year. Price 75 cents. Samples 10 cents.

OUR ROAD LAW.

LINN COUNTY, March 17

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

I noticed in your editorial columns to-day some true hints regarding the road law. It needs a thorough revision still. No tax should the tax be a money tax, and paid into the county, but the property on which the taxes are levied should pay the taxes. In the first place, in the country with land assessed at a value there is very little road work left, but eventually that all indebtedness is taken off so that the country, which, as all know, receives the most benefit from good roads, pays nothing more than a poll tax. Now, then, the roads are worked by citizens at $1 each, being two days for each poll. How is the work done? Well, in about this way: The road supervisor "warns a man out." "Can't come," he says, "plowing to-day." "Then send a man." Everybody is busy. Some man in town who pays a money tax is warned out and sends—who? a good workman, who will earn his money? No, any fellow will do. Those who owe him little bills are the best. Of course the work is a sort of dead horse business, and goes against the grain. Thus it goes the rounds, and road work is made a farce. The supervisor has no power, and so the roads of Oregon are probably the worst on the coast.

First place, let all property pay a full tax without indebtedness of the individual being taken out. Second, Have it a money tax and work the roads by contract. It will be done as well as it is now on a cash tax of 50 cents per man. In fact the country pays nearly enough for supervisors to warn out dead head workmen to work the roads if it was judiciously expended.

I trust THE OREGONIAN will not let this matter drop but will keep the hammer falling. Nearly all taxpayers are in favor of a money tax. It would be much cheaper. In Portland nearly every one pays a money road tax anyhow, and in the rural districts scarcely any road work is done, so that a measure of this kind could easily be adopted if supported strongly by your journal.

A SUPERVISOR.

Modesty.

Modesty is to a woman what the delicate bloom is to the peach—its greatest beauty, but once gone, no human power can restore it. Many modest women suffer in silence for years with the most painful affections of the delicate vital organs of the body, rather than to impart the knowledge of their sufferings to a physician. This great army of martyrs will be rejoiced to know that at last a purely vegetable and harmless remedy has been discovered, which cures immediately all diseases and weakness of the kidney and bladder, no matter of how long standing or of what nature. It is the wonderful OREGON KIDNEY TEA, which is sold by all druggists and challenges the world

PORTLAND
CITY HOMESTEAD.

THE LAND IN THIS ENTERPRISE LIES adjoining the city, and is only from ten to fifteen minutes' walk from the court-house, and a less distance than that from one of the best public schools in the city. It is divided into

One Thousand and Twenty-Four Lots.

Fifty by one hundred feet in size, with streets sixty feet wide. Two hundred of these lots will be reserved for those who desire to improve and build this summer and fall. These lots will be sold on the same liberal terms that are offered in the Homestead proper.

Price.

All lots will be sold for $100 each, payable in instalments of $5 per month, or the small sum of 16⅔ cents per day. No interest will be charged, and a good and sufficient Bond for Deed will be given upon the payment of the first installment of $5, and a Warranty Deed upon receipt of last installment, both without expense to purchaser.

Appreciation of Values.

By reference to The Oregonian of Feb. 15th, it will be found that city property has advanced twenty five per cent during the past year. As there has been no excitement, the rise is wholly attributable to the increasing immigration and the growing confidence inspired by our numerous railroad enterprises, and the development of our many natural resources, that have hitherto slumbered for lack of energetic men to develop them.

It is True,

That of all real estate investments the homestead plan is the best and safest, as all who invest are interested in making the whole property more valuable. To illustrate: Suppose A builds a house on his lot, and B owns a lot adjoining; B gets the benefit of A's improvement, while A is not injured thereby. This philosophy will apply to the entire property.

We have donated a lot to each of the principal churches for church purposes.

In addition to the above, two lots are set apart for public school purposes.

Division.

The division of this property will take place when the lots are all sold, or, in any event, not later than the 28th February, 1881,

at the Mechanics' Pavilion, commencing at 10 o'clock A. M., public notice of which will be given by publication in two principal journals in the state.

It will be made in the manner decided upon by a majority of the purchasers in the Homestead. Parties interested may appoint proxies to act for them if they desire to do so. Parties who do not attend at the time of the division, either in person or by proxy, will be bound by the plan settled upon by the majority of those who do so attend.

It is suggested by the purchasers that division might be made by placing the number of each lot and block in a wheel or box and the name of each party interested in the homestead in another—then a name will be drawn from one and a number from the other, and the lot so drawn deeded to the person whose name is so drawn, when all payments are made.

All but the first installment must be paid at the banking house of Ladd & Tilton, in the city of Portland.

Persons from a Distance

Desiring a share, may forward $5.00 to the General Manager, and a bond will be immediately forwarded

PERPETUAL MOTION

LANE COUNTY, March 15

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

I would respectfully solicit to be heard through the agency of your Paper in regard to Perpetual motion as understood in mechanics and Philosophy.

It is said to be an impossibility. Where is the evidence. Thousands of dollars may have been expended and thousands of machines may have failed to produce the result. Are all these failures an evidence of the impossibility. I say so they are simply assertions without the evidence. No evidence to evidence of impossibility. Having a theory that shall produce the result or in other words the possibility, I may and hereby do Challenge Science, the Philosophers and the World to demonstrate the impossibility. Let there be evidence along with assertion. Will not some one of the scientific World that boasts so much of the great impossibility show us how it is.

GEORGE FOGL.

We insert the above not only as a duty to true science but as a contribution to the intellectual emancipation of mankind. Never shall it be said that this journal has repressed an appeal for an opportunity to "Chalenge Science and the Phylosophiis," to the end that certain gross delusions concerning gravity, inertia and other alleged laws of matter may be dispelled. Now let us hear from the man who can lift himself over a fence by the seat of his trousers.

How Lamb said Grace.

[From the Toronto Graphic.]

Charles Lamb was in the habit of wearing a white cravat, and in consequence was sometimes taken for a clergyman. Once, at a dinner-table, among a large number of guests, his white cravat caused such a mistake to be made, and he was called on to "say grace." "Is there no cl-cl-clergyman present?" "No, sir," answered a guest. "Th-then," said Lamb, bowing his head, "let us thank God."

Don't Encourage Him.

[From the Norristown Herald.]

America should look with dismay upon the multitudinous attempts to kill the czar. They advertise him so extensively that the next thing we know he will come to this country on a lecture tour.

Eggs in better supply, and market shows signs of weakening.

THE REAL ESTATE MARKET.

The following special report of the real estate market is furnished THE OREGONIAN by Clark & Upton, real estate brokers and architects:

The real estate transactions of the past week as recorded show an aggregate of $83,289 and 38 deal[s] of which 15 were city, 14 country and suburban, and 9 East Portland as against 21 transactions and $63,780 the previous week, being an increase of 17 in number and $19,509 in amount. The chief feature of the week is the purchase by [illegible] J. Ainsworth of the handsome block on First street, built by Klosterman Bros. last summer and now sold by them for $60,000. It is scarcely necessary to say that the market is buoyant and [illegible] the foregoing figures speak for themselves. The city properties which have changed hands have realized marked advances upon the [illegible] have commanded a few months [illegible] purchases made, however, appear to [illegible] made for investment rather than speculation. [illegible] First-class business properties [illegible] sites find ready purchasers. The [illegible] of work in architects' offices is considerable [illegible] in the season. [illegible] warrant the belief that more [illegible] will be erected during the coming summer [illegible] preceding one. A number of [illegible] are also projected, and several are [illegible] of erection.

SUICIDE.

A distinguished Scientist once said: "No man with a strong, healthy stomach ever committed suicide, yet many suffer the torments of the damned with dyspepsia when a single bottle of DR. MINTIE'S ENGLISH DANDELION LIVER AND DYSPEPSIA PILLS will give relief, and, if persisted in, cure the worse case of this distressing trouble. This pill cures torpid liver, billousness, sallow complexion, foul breath, sick headache, heartburn, pain in side and back, removes pimples from the face, regulates the bowels, is sugar-coated and guaranteed purely vegetable. It acts directly on the coating of the stomach and on the liver; is suited to any climate, wet or dry weather. Beware of imitations; genuine has cut of lion on outside wrapper. Price, 50 cents. Sold by all druggists. Hodge, Davis & Co., Portland, wholsale agents.

How to Save Money.

Instead of going to a doctor, if you have Bright's Disease, Diabetes, pain in back and loins, smarting, inflammation, calculi, brick-dust deposit, or any trouble of the kidneys or bladder, buy a bottle of DR. MINTIE'S NEPHRETICUM, the great Buchu Compound. It is the best prescription ever compounded for these troubles. Abrams & Carroll, Wholesale Druggists, say: "We regard Nephreticum as the best Kidney and Bladder Remedy in the market." Woodward, druggist, Portland, Oregon, says: "Everybody speaks highly of it." Childs, druggist, Portland, says: "Sold lots of it; it always does the work." Many have been cured of obstinate kidney complaints after the doctors gave them up. Sold by all druggists. Price $1 00 a bottle, or six bottles for $5. Hodge, Davis & Co., Portland, Wholesale Agents.

Sir Astley Cooper's Vital Restorative.

The great English remedy—has made more cures of Nervous Debility, Seminal Weakness, Lost Manhood, nocturnal emissions, lassitude, inability for mental labor, despondency, and such diseases as are induced by youthful follies and excesses, than all other medicines combined.

It is not a stimulant nor excitant, is perfectly safe to take, is not a quack nostrum, and produces results that are wonderful.

Price, $3 a bottle. Four times the quantity, $10. Buy a bottle. It will not disappoint you. Hodge, Davis & Co., wholesale agents.

45 Years Before the Public.

THE GENUINE

DR. C. McLANE'S

CELEBRATED

FOR THE CURE OF

Hepatitis, or Liver Complaint,

DYSPEPSIA AND SICK HEADACHE.

Symptoms of a Diseased Liver.

PAIN in the right side, under the edge of the ribs, increases on pressure; sometimes the pain is in the left side, the patient is rarely able to lie on the left side; sometimes the pain is felt under the shoulder blade, and it frequently extends to the top of the shoulder, and is sometimes mistaken for rheumatism in the arm. The stomach is affected with loss of appetite and sickness; the bowels in general are costive, sometimes alternative with lax; the head is troubled with pain, accompanied with a dull, heavy sensation in the back part. There is generally a considerable loss of memory, accompanied with a painful sensation of having left undone something which ought to have been done. A slight, dry cough is sometimes an attendant. The patient complains of weariness and debility; he is easily startled, his feet are cold or burning, and he complains of a prickly sensation of the skin; his spirits are low; and although he is satisfied that exercise would be beneficial to him, yet he can scarcely summon up fortitude enough to try it. In fact, he distrusts every remedy. Several of the above symptoms attend the disease, but cases have occurred where few of them existed, yet examination of the body, after death, has shown the LIVER to have been extensively deranged.

AGUE AND FEVER.

DR. C. McLANE'S LIVER PILLS, IN CASES OF AGUE AND FEVER, when taken with Quinine, are productive of the most happy results. No better cathartic can be used, preparatory to, or after taking Quinine. We would advise all who are afflicted with this disease to give them a FAIR TRIAL.

For all bilious derangements, and as a simple purgative, they are unequaled.

BEWARE OF IMITATIONS.

The genuine are never sugar coated.

Every box has a red wax seal on the lid, with the impression DR. McLANE'S LIVER PILLS.

The genuine McLANE'S LIVER PILLS bear the signatures of C. McLANE and FLEMING BROS. on the wrappers.

Insist upon having the genuine DR. C. McLANE'S LIVER PILLS, prepared by Fleming Bros., of Pittsburgh, Pa., the market being full of imitations of the name McLane, spelled differently but same pronunciation.

The Bitters invariably remedy yellowness of the complexion and whites of the eyes, pains in the right side and under the right shoulder blade, furred tongue, high colored urine, nausea, vertigo, dyspepsia, constipation, heaviness of the head, mental despondency, and every other manifestation or accompaniment of a disordered condition of the liver. The stomach, bowels and kidneys also experience their regulating and tonic influence.

DR. PAUL M. BRENAN

The Most Successful Physician on the Pacific Coast.

IN THE TREATMENT OF ALL

CHRONIC AND DIFFICULT DISEASES.

DR. BRENAN WILL GUARANTEE TO CURE any form of disease of the generative organs or private disease.

He has become an expert in the treatment of disease, weakness and derangement of the reproductive organs of both male and female, including diseases caused by the

FOLLIES OF YOUTH,

Such as SPERMATORRHEA, or SEMINAL WEAKNESS, or LOSS OF PERFECT VITALITY. Nearly two thirds of all the Chronic Diseases spring, either directly or indirectly, from some derangement of the sexual system, and yet this subject is neglected by the majority of the Medical Profession.

I know that persons who are unfortunate enough to be afflicted by any form of sexual disease have a delicacy in calling upon the proper physician in time, from a sense of modesty and sometimes from ignorance, and permit those diseases to exist until their constitutions become corrupted, their organization broken down and the hope of future happiness blighted, until death becomes a welcome messenger to carry them out of their miserable existence.

Everything strictly confidential under all circumstances.

Lost manhood perfectly restored.

Catarrh, Bronchitis, Throat Diseases, Skin Diseases, Rheumatism, Kidney Complaint and all Diseases of the Eye and Ear, Stomach and Bladder, he can cure without fail.

Consultation Free, and a list of printed questions sent to those living at a distance who cannot consult him personally. Enclose postage stamp for list.

A Scheme of Colonization.

SAN ANTONIO, March 20.—A grand sc[illegible] for the colonization of northern Mex[illegible] being arranged here, which, if consum[illegible] will settle the border question.

Strikes and Compromises.

ST. LOUIS, March 20.—Workmen [illegible] Missouri Pacific machine shops at [illegible] and miners in the coal mines of the [illegible] that vicinity, quit work to-day. Gen[illegible] perintendent Talmage will reply to [illegible] mands of the employees to-morrow, b[illegible] nature of the reply is not known. [illegible] yard men on both sides of the river [illegible] work this noon. The Union Trans[illegible] bridge company, having acceded to [illegible] mands of employees no interruptions [illegible] red in the bridge traffic. All trains [illegible] time. The short road between East St. [illegible] and Carondelet, met the demands of the [illegible] ployees, and stated that the Chicago an[illegible] ton Company would do the same. St[illegible] places are being rapidly filled. The [illegible] Mountain road increased the wages of it[illegible] ployees recently, and there is no tr[illegible] there. The meeting held by the strike[illegible] the East St. Louis railway to-night, res[illegible] in nothing but an expression of a deter[illegible] tion by the strikers to hold out.

The Piano Makers' Strike.

NEW YORK, March 20.—The locked [illegible] piano makers in one factory resume wo[illegible] Monday. The men locked out from [illegible] other factories were told to-day that [illegible] could return to work on Monday by [illegible] soning the union.

Outrage in Louisiana by Striking Ne[illegible]

NEW ORLEANS, March 20.—Striking le[illegible] had stripped 18 plantations, when 9 [illegible] leaders were arrested by the state artiller[illegible]

Eight Hour Labor Movement in St. L[illegible]

ST. LOUIS, March 21.—The trades asso[illegible] held a mass meeting this afternoon, and [illegible] animously adopted resolutions urging [illegible] adoption of the eight hour movement, [illegible] calling on congress to establish an eight [illegible] law, declaring they would do their utmo[illegible] destroy the congressman of any pol[illegible] party who speaks against it. The me[illegible] was very earnest but orderly.

St. Anthony's Falls.

MINNEAPOLIS, March 20.—Manager Hil[illegible] the Manitoba road, has bought of Butter[illegible] of New York, the entire water power fro[illegible] Anthony's falls for $115,000. These cove[illegible] feet of shore front and 40 acres of land, a[illegible] water power of 70 feet head. There is [illegible] ulation that other roads may come i[illegible] equal terms.

Grant Rather Short in Illinois.

GENEVA, Ill., March 20.—At the repub[illegible] county convention held here to-day [illegible] delegates elected to the state convention [illegible] are for Blaine and five for Grant. This [illegible] first county convention held in the state [illegible] indicates that the Grant wave is not as s[illegible] as supposed.

Pittsburg Overwhelmingly for Tild[illegible]

PITTSBURG, March 21.—The democ[illegible] primaries of Allegheny county were [illegible] whelmingly Tilden in their result.

Indian Hostilities.

GALVESTON, March 21.—News' specials [illegible] Fort Davis says the Indians attacked a [illegible] twelve miles from a mining camp in Chi[illegible] mountains and killed one man and car[illegible] off a boy. Lieut. Bullis and troops are [illegible] suing.

Another Discovery of Masonic Embl[illegible] at Alexandria.

NEW YORK, March 20.—The New [illegible] Herald's special from Paris, March 20th [illegible] Our correspondent communicates by [illegible] graph to-day facts which will revive in a [illegible] higher degree the interest excited am[illegible] students of Egyptian mysteries some t[illegible] three months ago, by Lieutenant Gorri[illegible] discovery of Masonic emblems underne[illegible] the pedestal of the obelisk at Alexandri[illegible] stined for transportation to New York. [illegible] teresting and important as were the dis[illegible] eries of Commander Gorringe and Dr. Fe[illegible] they were not exhaustive, and the orac[illegible] eye of another distinguished Masonic d[illegible] tary, has just detected an additional [illegible] of emblems of a value and significanc[illegible] greater and more unquestionable than [illegible] previously reported. Mr. S. A. Zola, g[illegible] commander and president of the Scotch [illegible] cient and Accepted Masonic rite for E[illegible] and Egyptian ex-grand master of sym[illegible] Masonry, has examined the foundation [illegible] the Alexandrian obelisk and has discov[illegible] another series of stones, which not only [illegible] all the existing Masonic emblems, but [illegible] ish the key which has heretofore been [illegible] ing to explain the entire dimension[illegible] proportions of what proves to have bee[illegible] elaborate Masonic edifice including the ob[illegible] itself, the pedestal, the staircase and the [illegible] den foundation. Mr. Zola professes [illegible] able by his discovery to throw a vivid [illegible] upon the ancient Egyptian origin of Ma[illegible] symbolism, which is so energetically dis[illegible] and it is expected that the publication [illegible] detailed drawings which have been se[illegible] for the Herald, will finally settle more [illegible] one of the problems which lie at the [illegible] foundation, not only of Masonry but o[illegible] obscure and complicated religious syste[illegible] the early Egyptians.

Coal Miners' Resolutions.

PITTSBURG, March 20.—The bituminou[illegible] miners have adopted resolutions of symp[illegible] with the workingmen of California in [illegible] effort to resist oppression of capital and [illegible] duction of coolie labor.

All About a Georgia Supervisor.

WASHINGTON, March 20.—The senate re[illegible] ed Summers, the Georgia census superv[illegible] Blaine made a humorous speech say[illegible] had established beyond any doubt in h[illegible] ter to the president, asking for the ap[illegible] ment, that he was a firm and unflin[illegible] republican, and in his subsequent letters [illegible] declarations seeking confirmation a[illegible] hands of the senate, that he was a red ho[illegible] uncompromising democrat. Further [illegible] this he had proved himself to have bee[illegible] unswerving in zeal and enthusiastic co[illegible] [illegible] said Blaine, "that I [illegible] had two votes, for then I would take [illegible] pleasure in giving one to confirm th[illegible] voted union, and this sincere repu[illegible] [illegible] in giving the [illegible] reject the [illegible] rebel and this ardent [illegible] crat."
